

Myrtle Beach Dentists Emphasize Good Oral Health

You will have no trouble locating a good dentist in Myrtle Beach, South Carolina, no matter what your needs may be. From general to pediatric to cosmetic dentistry, there is a dentist in Myrtle Beach just for you.

Pediatric oral care is very important to the dentist community in Myrtle Beach. Practitioners support parents with instruction in home dental care and overall dental health information that will help to keep their childrens teeth and gums at their best. Good oral hygiene and nutritious foods are emphasized. Good lifelong dental health habits begin in childhood.

Sometimes even the best and most aggressive dental care in childhood does not prevent adult teeth from developing poorly, which is where a good orthodontist comes in. Orthodontics, which corrects dental defects with braces or other dental appliances, is as essential to good oral development as general dentistry. Several good orthodontic dentists practice in Myrtle Beach.

Other dentists in Myrtle Beach perform restorative services. Damaged teeth can be restored in as little as one session using a specially formulated ceramic material that matches the color of your other teeth. Crowns are created on site. Dental restoration services include root canal therapy, bridges, partials and dentures as well. The smile will be back on your face in no time.

Let us not forget cosmetic dentistry. Your smile reflects your emotions and is often the first thing someone notices about you; let that be for its sparkle and not its defects. Broken or chipped teeth can be restored to their original shape and color; fillings made of tooth colored material and tooth whitening procedures eliminate stains and unsightly metal spots. Your self confidence will be restored along with your teeth.

If you are not in need of a specialist, several dentists in Myrtle Beach offer general dental services for the whole family. Regular dental checkups give you access to xray screenings that detect cavities, bone loss and tumors, tooth cleaning and polishing, examination for oral cancer, gum treatments and TMJ (temporomandibular joint disorder) therapy. Dentists in Myrtle Beach also have access to the latest advances in dental technology, such as air abrasion (which eliminates the need for drilling), diagnodent (which aids in the detection of cavities at their earliest stages) and comfort techniques such as intravenous sedation, oral sedation and nitrous oxide, designed to keep anxiety during treatment to a minimum.
